Plan Prizes For Exhibits; Children to Parade

Salem's annual Fall Festival will be an event of Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21 and 22.

These dates were approved at a meeting of the Salem Business bureau Tuesday morning, when a committee from the American Legion post outlined tentative plans for the two days.

Legion Is Sponsor
The Legion will sponsor the festival, with the co-operation of the trade extension committee of the bureau. A. P. Morris is chairman of the Legion committee.

Prizes will be offered for exhibits of fruits, vegetables and farm products, baked goods, canned goods, needlework of various kinds, antiques, etc. These exhibits will be placed in the stores.

A parade for children will be a feature of Saturday afternoon and there will be many other attractions.

The Legion is arranging for a midway of attractions on S. Landy ave. the plan being to block off the street between State and Pershing.
There will be a merry-go-round, ferns shed and many other attractions.

Work Out Details
Details of the festival program will be worked out within a few days. The Legion committee that met with the business men Tuesday included A. P. Morris, W. Ray Pearce and C. R. Hald. The bureau's committee is headed by R.
S. McCulloch.

Will Have Nothing
To Do With Liquor

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21—An official of the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union frowned today on reapprehension of that group with the state liquor control board.

"No, no," Mrs. H. D. Van Kirk of Columbus, said.

"We won't have anything to do with liquor in any form. The only way liquor can be controlled is by absolute prohibition. We don't cooperate with any board trying to control liquor otherwise," she asserted.

Mrs. Van Kirk is corresponding secretary of the Ohio W. C. T. U.
Her positive statement came after Mrs. Berta McKinney, president of the Central W. C. T. U. of Cincinnati, a chapter of the Hamilton county organization, suggested the union, while still working for absolute prohibition, might well cooperate with the board of liquor control, to permit investigations and the like.

The opinion, she immediately made clear, was entirely her own and did not reflect that of the W. C. T. U. itself.

Thursday--
Dollar Day

Thursday of this week has been designated as dollar day by Salem merchants.

The semi-annual event will consist on this occasion of only one day instead of the customary two.

However, it is the plan of Salem merchants to jam as many bargains into the one day as possible, adjusting prices on every possible item in order to make the event of lasting value to thrifty shoppers throughout the district.

MACHINE GUNS
READY AS GANG
HOLDS UP TRUCK

Brooklyn, N. Y., Shocked
By Most Daring Holdup
In Its History

LEAVE ONE BAG
CARRYING $29,000

Auto, Manned by 2 Guards,
Driver Was Making
Collections

(By Associated Press)
BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 21—A band of at least a dozen robbers, armed with half a dozen or more sub-machine guns, today held up an armored truck in one of the most daring robberies in Brooklyn's police history and escaped with an estimated $427,000.

The robbers cleaned out the truck in three minutes, leaving only one bag containing $29,000 in the truck as they sped away in two automobiles.

The robbery took place in front of the Rubel company ice plant at Bay 19th st., between Cropsey and Bath aves.

The armored truck, manned by a driver and two guards, drew up in front of the plant on its collecting tour and one of the guards, William Lillenthal, stepped from the truck to enter the Rubel offices.

As he left the truck, two men, dressed as laborers, who had been standing beside an ice truck, lifted an old automobile seat from the top of the ice truck, and exposed a machine gun which was pointed directly at the armored car.

"Say a word and this spits," one of the bandits warned Joseph Allen, driver, and John Wilson, the other guard.

At this point two automobiles, which apparently had been following the armored car, screamed to a stop. Five to a dozen men, witnesses were uncertain of the exact number, jumped from the two cars, carrying half a dozen sub-machine guns.

One of the robbers walked to the door of the Rubel office, reaching it just as Lillenthal opened the door. He jammed the muzzle into Lillenthal's back.

An employee of the ice company office reached for a telephone on the counter. The robber grasped it and yanked it off the wire.

He turned to Lillenthal, reached into his arm holster and disarmed the guard. The robber then ordered Lillenthal to "march out."

Meanwhile, the rest of the robber band had surrounded the armored truck, training machine guns on it.
Four men pushed into the truck, shoving Allen ahead of them.

Then the robbers began transfer of money bags to their own cars.
The transfer took about three minutes, the robbers working precisely and speedily. They found the money bags, which contained coin and currency, so heavy, however, that in their hurry they left one containing $29,000.

Familiar Views of Henry T. Rainey, Late House Speaker

A sudden heart attack induced by pneumonia which he contracted on his strenuous 5,300-mile speaking tour of the United States and Canada proved fatal to 74-year-old Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, speaker of the house of representatives. A familiar figure in Washington circles with his white hair and

Checks On Recovery Befor Leaving For Rainey Rites

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—President Roosevelt called in his recovery lieutenants today for a last minute check before departing for Carrollton, Ill., to attend the funeral of Speaker Henry T. Rainey.

He planned to leave late this afternoon by special train. After the funeral tomorrow he will go directly to Hyde Park, N. Y., to establish the "summer white house."

Make Final Review
The executive council, comprising cabinet members and heads of all emergency agencies, was summoned to the White House for a final review of the national situation.

Mr. Roosevelt had planned to leave Washington for Hyde Park on Friday, but he decided to go direct from Carrollton tomorrow rather than take the round-about way back through Washington. In going to pay tribute to the late Mr.
Rainey, a bulwark of the new deal,
Mr. Roosevelt follows a precedent set by President Hoover, who traveled to Cincinnati to attend the obsequies of Speaker Nicholas Longworth in 1931.

An all-afternoon session yesterday at the White House brought an understanding of principles for reorganization of the national recovery administration—a meeting that left some speculation in its wake.

Avoid Questioners
The President called in Hugh S.
Johnson, Secretary Perkins and Donald Richberg, counsel for NRA.
After an hour or so Johnson left and told reporters Miss Perkins and Richberg would do the talking.
An hour later Miss Perkins and Richberg slipped out the back door, avoiding questioners.

There have been signs of some feelings between Johnson and Richberg. The latter has been mentioned as a successor to Johnson, but the White House has made it known Johnson is to carry on.

Byrns Heads Race
For Speaker's Job

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The name of Joseph Willington Byrns headed many lists of likely successors to the late Speaker Henry T.
Rainey today.

Though the matter is not settled and may lead to strong intra-party rivalry, the Tennessee representative, who is Democratic Party leader, appeared to some observers to have the pole in the race.

Others were far from being counted out. The list of possible contenders included:

Representatives Sam Rayburn, of Texas; William B. Bankhead and John McDuffie, of Alabama; Clifton Woodrum of Virginia; John McCormack of Massachusetts; Lindsay Warren of North Carolina, and John E. Rankin of Mississippi.

A group of 20 children, including his two sons, will be inoculated with the fluid previously tested by Doctor Koimer himself and his technical assistant, Miss Anna M.
Rule, of Halifax, N. S.

After that, says the physician-professor, the vaccine formula will be made public for use by the hundreds of physicians whose requests for it have come in from all parts of the country since Friday's announcement.

Former Salem Resident
To Serve Until Electors Act

WON'T SEEK POST
AT FALL BALLOT

Voters Will Fill Unexpired and Full Terms
In November

Att'y Charles F. Smith of Youngstown, former Salem resident and well known in the district today was appointed a member of the district court of appeals to succeed the late Judge Louis T. Farr of Lisbon.

Smith's appointment was made by Governor George White. Scheduled to be sworn in this afternoon, he will serve until a successor to Judge Farr is qualified.

Not a Candidate
While accepting the temporary appointment from Governor White, Smith announced this morning that he will not be a candidate for the post at the November election.

Two successors to Judge Farr will be named at the November vote.
Once judge will be elected to fill out his unexpired term, from the date of the election until Feb. 9.
The second will be elected for a full, six-year term.

Judge Farr, member of the appellate court for 15 years, was unopposed for re-election to the full term.

Att'y Charles M. Wilkins, Youngstown, has announced himself a candidate for the full term while Att'y Dominick Rendell, Youngstown, is aspiring to the unexpired term.

Two other Youngstown lawyers,
George M. Cravener and H. H.
Wickham, are also reported considering entering the latter race.

Names of candidates for the two posts will appear on ballots by petition. About 3,600 valid signatures are required to nominate a candidate on the non-partisan ticket for court of appeals.

Judge Farr's temporary successor was born in White county, Ind., on Jan. 3, 1879. He resided in Salem for 16 years, during which he was associated with Att'y L. P. Metzger in the law firm of Metzger and Smith.

Came to Salem in 1904
Smith received his early education in Indiana schools and graduated from the University of Indiana school of law in 1899. He was admitted to the Indiana bar in 1900, but for several years, instead of following the legal profession, was identified with the insurance business in Indiana.

Admitted to the Ohio bar in 1904, he came to Salem the same year and remained here until 1920. While in this city he married Miss Franc Bradbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
William Bradbury of Youngstown.

He withdrew from the Metzger and Smith law firm to move to Youngstown, where he is a member of the legal firm of Harrington, Huxley and Smith. Paul Huxley, a native of Salem and former mayor here, is also a member of the firm.

State Democratic Committee to Meet

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21—The newly elected state Democratic central committee today was called by its chairman, Earl Hanefeld, state director of agriculture, to meet here at 2 p. m. next Tuesday.

The meeting will be for the purpose of effecting the new organization, including election of a chairman, vice-chairman, treasurer and secretary.

Many of the members the state central committee are new to their tasks, about half of the present committee having been replaced in the primary election.

Hurry Up, Huey

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug.

Huey Long decided in favor of Paraguay and got a fort named after him down there. I guess these folks heard about a big

If Huey will intervene over here right quick I think I can get a country and two miles of railroad named after him.

"WE APPROVE"

Americans construe the significant fact of last Sunday's plebiscite in Germany to be the 4,000,000 negative votes. This is the natural result of their attitude of criticism.

Obviously, it is unfair to believe that 4,000,000 negative votes out of 38,000,000 affirmative votes represent an important minority. In this country's last national election the winning candidate obtained only 57 percent of the popular vote, yet scored a decisive victory. Chancellor Hitler, with more than 88 percent of all votes cast Sunday, has gained more support than any president of the United States ever can expect to gain.

Chancellor Hitler, of course, was not contesting in an election. He was asking for approval of his policies. A vote against him was entirely negative; there was no alternative. Doubtless millions of affirmative votes were cast, not because they represented approval of Hitler policies, but because they represented belief in those policies as the only possible alternative to chaos.

It is on this point that Americans need to dwell more often. They have condemned Adolf Hitler because he failed to meet certain political and sociological standards peculiar to themselves in many cases. They have judged his government by the standards and sometimes the ideals of democracy, though knowing that modern Germany is not interested in democracy. They have judged the Nazi regime without the benefit of a basis of comparison. They have spoken freely about what should be done in Germany, with little thought to what could be done.

The plebiscite's purpose was to add to the impression of unity which Chancellor Hitler is trying to create among Germans. This was done successfully. The negative votes were scattered. They did not represent an organized or a constructive minority. Any leader who can get 88 percent support, even with the powerful electrifying methods used by the Nazi party, is assured of his position.

HENRY T. RAINEY

Something of the old order in politics passes with the death of Henry T. Rainey who, strangely enough, was a conspicuous figure in politics' newest deal. Events had given Mr. Rainey an unharmonious background in his last years.

Better known to the country by appearance than by principles, he was one of the survivors of a political school whose members dressed for the part. His mane of silvery hair and his flowing tie made him a Washington landmark.

He owed his eminent position as speaker of the house of representatives chiefly to two factors. He had been elected to every congress, save one, since the 58th. By the rule of seniority he had earned recognition by legislative longevity.

More important than that when Democrats organized the house was the fact that he represented the 20th district of Illinois. Southern Democrats had most of the important posts in the house; it was expedient to have as speaker a northern Democrat. Mr. Rainey met the requirements laid down by the situation that existed at the time.

As speaker he became an important member of the inner group of the Roosevelt administration. He undertook the responsibility of guiding its legislative program through the house and acquitted himself of it reasonably well. He was not, however, a perfect cog in the machine, according to its demands. Dissatisfaction, which first appeared halfway through the regular session of the 73rd congress, had grown to proportions which warranted speculation on his replacement.

He served his party faithfully when faith demanded scant reward. His years of conscientious endeavor had earned him as much as he was capable of accepting. Politically, he will not be placed among the great speakers of the house nor among the greater statesmen of his time. But whatever recognition is owing to men who make themselves indispensable by steady and constant service belongs to him. It is pleasant to know that the debt was paid to him before he died.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, August 22

A day of rather adverse influences from the intervening planets is presaged, with nothing but patience, perseverance, self-restraint and undivided application to affairs in hand to turn things into prosperous and progressive channels. There are uncertainties, perplexities and perils from all angles, with real property and other accumulations to be safeguarded, with chance and speculation to be shunned. Rushing impetuously into disturbed and unstable conditions and dealing with unknown elements and strangers would prove hazardous. Personal affairs also have treacherous angles.

Hard Work Ahead

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year which will tax all their wisdom and ingenuity to safeguard their accumulated possessions. This by hard work, undivided application, patience and perseverance, and not reckless and impetuous, hasty and quarrelsome moves. Be particularly on guard against strange persons and propositions, refraining from speculation and taking long chances. Also the private affiliations should be protected from intrigue and subterfuge. A child born on this day should be energetic and resourceful, but disposed to rush into speculation and losses thereby, possibly defying the law.

Notable nativity: John Gough, temperance agitator.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—New York has become completely hokum-minded, theatrically. Almost any opus with an unhand-villain motif, produced in a deserted warehouse or water front shamble, brings an 18 karat Polles audience on the run. Even front line critics attend.

Old-time meliers that inspired another generation with tenseness are, of course, merely rib-tickers for moderns. There is a crossroads informality about them that also sophisticates find engaging. It balloons their superiority and, of course, provides outlet for much smart persiflage.

The producers of revived tent-tent-thirteenth have had the wisdom to stick to the original lines and demand players parrot them with unflinching seriousness. Breaking the theater's latter day reticence by hissing the villain and cheering the hero out loud is good fun, too.

The renaissance is also a boon to old-time actors long in the discard. Many on a charity dole are drawing $40 a week. The line that has pleased me most was the clarion cry to a dirty villain: "No man who lays hands on a woman save in carea deserves the name of American gentleman!"

A study of personages in relation to their ages is of interest to everybody in middle years. I think the most conspicuous examples of men bordering on the late 50's who do not look their age are George M. Cohan, Jimmie Walker, John Barrymore, H. L. Mencken, Roscoe Peacock, Jules Glanzer, George Jean Nathan, and Douglas Fairbanks. The New Yorker who has approached even riper years with the most insouciance is Whitney Warren, the architect. E. Berry Wall in Paris is a runner up.

Young John Jacob Astor is a long convert to the hatless brigade. He has not worn one for years, even going bareheaded with evening clothes. However there has been an abatement in the increasing torment to hat manufacturers. The decrease of hatless this summer was, according to statistics, 20 percent. Yet the problem is still serious. I am told there is a cached fund of $250,000 ready for any bright publicity boy who can offer a convincing idea calculated to put hats back on heads.

They are honoring Art Hickman sentimentally these days in orchestra broadcasts. He came out of San Francisco to captivate the town with dance music—remember his "Whispering?"—at the Midnight Prolie. His reign was brief, timid, self-effacing but left an indelible imprint on his time no other orchestra leader attained. He sat at the drums when he conducted.

The Midnight Prolie Roof is now an occasional theater for broadcasting. Its location atop the ace show house of its era, the New Amsterdam, was regarded as the absolute center of the aristocratic midnight boi. Today the block it helped glorify is as cheaply brash and carnival as a back yonder street fair. The Prolie was an entertainment almost every cabaret has tried to imitate but without success. It had an air. Also Will Rogers and Bert Williams. Great names in finance, the theater and the arts were nightly at the ringside. I remember in a single evening seeing among the patrons Bernard Baruch, Otto Kahn, Ahmed Abdullah, Nicolas Longworth and Alice, Fannie Hurst and Ben Ali Haggin. Somehow the tiny room offered intimacy without contempt. Drinking without drunkenness. Aristocracy without snobishness. There has been no place quite like it.

For the showier night life of the Prolie period, stay outs meandered northward to the black and white postage stamp sized room of Bustanoby's, a short space from Columbus Circle. Vernon Castle might drop in to crouch at the trap-drummer's perch. Beautiful Dolores, the gorgeous show girl, often strutted her peacock walk. Diamond Jim Brady dazzled with his locomotive set of diamond studs and links while fox trotting with either Dolly sister. It was flashy, exciting and revealing a Broadway now definitely dead. Some other street, some other time in less difficult days, will bloom as Broadway bloomed. Many think it will be Lexington avenue north of 50th.

He was talking big around the garage last night. He knew what was the matter with the world, what would fix it and had his own especial plan for straightening out America and putting it on an even keel. After 15 minutes of his enormous pronouncements, a washer in the rear, as the blowgun departed, called: "Ask him what days he walks on water?"

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Don't Ignore Lung Infection

Any part of the body, including the lungs and other organs of the body, is susceptible to infection and the accumulation of pus. "Empyema" is the name given a condition in which pus accumulates within the lining of the chest cavity. As a rule, it can be traced to pneumonia, pleurisy, bronchitis or other infection within the body. Often it may follow a neglected cold.

Dr. Copeland

The germs of the infection causes pus to form and this accumulates in the lung cavity. The patient appears exceedingly ill and pale and has great difficulty in breathing. As a rule, there is a high fever, rising and falling during the day. This type of fever is often spoken of as "septic temperature" and results from the absorption of poisons developing in the pus formed within the body.

Often Overlooked

Unfortunately, the disease is often overlooked. In many instances it could be prevented if proper and immediate measures of relief were taken.

During the early stages of the ailment the victim has difficulty in breathing and complains of pain in the chest. The symptoms are so pronounced as to demand attention.

In children the pain may be so severe as to prevent sleep and causes extreme restlessness and discomfort. If the true nature of the trouble is overlooked, the disease progresses and soon there is an excessive accumulation of pus. This leads to increasing and ultimately marked pressure on the lungs.

If you are at all in doubt a physician should be consulted. At times an X-ray examination may be advisable to rule out some other affliction.

When the diagnosis is made the physician may resort to that method of treatment known as "tapping". Here a long needle is passed through the skin into the area of the chest where it is suspected the empyema is located. If pus is present it can be withdrawn through the needle.

Simple Matter

If this procedure is advised do not become alarmed. It is of great benefit and in the hands of a competent surgeon is really a simple matter. In addition to its value in confirming the nature of the trouble, it has positive curative value in that large amounts of pus can be withdrawn from the diseased area. This lowers the fever and hastens convalescence.

Of course, a simple tap is not always sufficient to effect cure. In more advanced cases it may be necessary to remove the patient to a hospital and operate more extensively. The operation consists of providing adequate drainage and removal of the accumulated pus.

Delay is harmful because prolonged persistence of empyema may lead to serious complications. For example, the pus may extend to various parts of the lung. These new areas are hard to find and may become separated from the main infection. This leads to the formation of numerous abscesses. Surgery in these cases is more difficult and convalescence is often prolonged and stormy.

Answers to Health Queries

Sister Q.—What can be done to avoid bed sores and other minor disturbances when caring for a patient who is bedridden?

A.—Daily care and attention will do much to add to the comfort of the patient, or full particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mother Q.—My little girl of three seems active and well but lacks appetite. What shall I do to encourage her to eat?

A.—See that her diet is as varied as possible. Keep her system clear. For full particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

NEW YORK—Court was becoming a blemish as Mrs. Anna Katz, 21, disputed the charge that she left the lid off her garbage can.

"You talk too much," interposed Magistrate William O'Dwyer. "I think it would be a good idea for you to set here in absolute silence while I make up my mind just what to do about this case."

Two and one-half hours later the judge broke the silence with a suspended sentence.

"He's the nicest man," gushed Mrs. Katz.

"Handy Andy", With Will Rogers, Ends Tonight; Double Bill Coming

ANOTHER double bill comes to the State Wednesday and Thursday with the showing of "I'll Tell The World", with Lee Tracy, and "Half A Sinner", featuring Berton Churchill.
Tracy is assisted by Gloria Stuart, Roger Pryor, Onslow Stevens, Alex Francis, Lawrence Grant and Herman Bing. The picture is noteworthy first, because it brings back the popular star after the unfortunate incident in Mexico and secondly, because it gives him the role he has made famous, that of a newspaperman.

Lee Tracy

Rival Reporters
The story, a fast moving comedy drama, has to do with the loves and adventures of the staff correspondents of world wide news-gathering agencies as they race from country to country in search of comedy, tragedy, thrills and triumphs which they make into stories that reach so many millions daily. Tracy and Pryor, playing the roles of rival reporters on different papers, first clash when they "cover" the crash of a disabled naval dirigible in Canada. Their rivalry continues in Europe when they try to find out why attempts are being made on the life of a certain wealthy grand duke.
Tracy meets a girl he believes to be an American and falls in love with her. Later he finds out she is really Princess Helen, niece of the duke and rightful heir to the throne. Pryor scoops Tracy on this angle of the story but princess or no, he loves the girl and she him. But later when the girl is found to be in immediate danger from the people who have murdered her cousin, the reporter secures the protection of the existing government for her on the promise to take her out of the country.

This he does by winning her consent to marriage. Tracy again scoops the world and wins for himself a royal princess.
Feature No. 2
"HALF A SINNER", hilarious and successful comedy drama when it played the New York stage, is now brought to the screen with Berton Churchill in the role he had in the former production. With him are Joel McCrea, Sally Blaine and Alexandra Carlisle.

The story records the activities of a sanctimonious rascal who poses as a deacon but who is really a card sharp and tells the story of two young lovers who have known him for years and know his secret but realize it would be fatal to their happiness if such a fact became public. There is a prize fight, a robbery for which McCrea is sent to jail and apparently deserted by his fiancée, a widow who places too much faith in a pair of jacks and through it all walks the saintly appearing churchman with his kindly philosophy. In the end, though a crook, he solves everyone's troubles in surprising fashion.

Tonight
Tonight ends the run of "Handy Andy", starring Will Rogers and featuring Peggy Wood, Mary Carlisle, Roger Imhoff and Conchita Montenegro.

APPRECIATION
 I want to express my thanks and assure all the voters of this county of my deep appreciation for their support in the Primary Election of August 14.
 Now I am the Republican candidate for Congress in the elections which will be held November 6, 1934.
 To those who are not acquainted with me, may I suggest that you make inquiry about me. Look me up carefully so that you may know exactly who I am, what I stand for, and how I work; to the end that no eleven-hour stories or poison propaganda may disturb your judgment in the last days of the campaign on which we are now embarking.
 Cordially yours,
 FRANK MURPHY,
 Republican Candidate for Congress

DISCUSS LOANS TO AID FARMERS

County Committee Hears Plan Explained By Field Agent

found a nation-wide need for cancellation committees.

Seek Cooperation

It was pointed out at the local meeting that in order to speed the work the farm and home program the committee will seek the cooperation of such organizations and officials as the county rehabilitation representatives, farm loan association secretaries, county agriculture agents, county relief commissions, county farm bureaus and the farm grants.

The meeting in Lisbon was attended by representatives of these groups and members of the county farm and home protective committee.

W. B. Smith, field agent of the Ohio farm and home protective committee, explained the program which is designed to provide immediate help in the solution of financial and adjustment problems on the many loan applications which are in the hands of the county farm loan secretaries in Ohio counties.

Attending the Lisbon meeting were: W. H. Hepburn, Lisbon, president of the county committee; Atty. Lodge Riddle, Lisbon, secretary; Charles W. Henderson, East Liverpool; Willard J. Hayes, Kensington; Louis J. Kirk, Columbiana; Edward P. Stratton, Salem, of the county committee, and Clark J. Halverstadt, secretary-treasurer of the Columbiana County Farm Loan association.

Members of the county committee will hold their next regular meeting Monday evening at the office of Riddle and Riddle, attorneys, Lisbon, to hear complaints.

Plans were made to hold the 1935 reunion on the third Sunday of July at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Garfield.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Miss Mary Haideman entertained 13 members of the Salem Dramatic club at her home on South Lincoln ave. Monday evening. After a business meeting the time was spent informally.

Plans were completed for a basket picnic to be held at Mill Creek park, Youngstown, Wednesday, Aug. 29. Miss Betty Hinkle was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee. After the supper the club plans to spend the evening at Idora park.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Monday, Sept. 1.

Alaskan Aviator Reported Safe On "Suicide" Flight

(By Associated Press)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 21.—The supposed "suicide flight" of Frank Dorbrandt, daring Arctic aviator, began to look today more like an aviator's expression of rage. Fear for his life were felt Sunday night when he lifted his big tri-motored plane, carrying only a scant supply of gasoline, from the Anchorage airport with the words: "You'll not see me again."

Some of his friends thought he might have set out on a dramatic quest for death to escape the pursuit of lawsuits. They believed he intended to fly over the ocean or over Alaska's snow-capped mountains until his gasoline was exhausted, and then crash.

But their fears were largely dissipated when they learned the husky pilot had landed at another airport, 50 miles away, spent the night and taken off the next day for an unannounced destination.

The hero of many Alaskan flying exploits took off on his strange flight shortly after he flew here from Point Barrow, northernmost settlement of the territory, to learn he had been ordered grounded by the airplane inspector.

He already faced government fur smuggling charges and a complaint filed by a 19-year-old Seattle girl.

Last night Pilot Murrell Sassen flew in from Sitka station, 50 miles northeast of Anchorage, and laughed at fears for the wandering aviator. Dorbrandt landed at Sunday night, spent the night and took off again at noon yesterday, Sassen said.

ST. LOUIS—"The Shadow" has been captured and his three parts lectured and sent home to mother.

Twelve prominent East St. Louisans received letters with the grim message: "Death is your pal," and signed "The Shadow." Each note bore a crude drawing of a hooded figure leading a skeleton.

Police finally arrested two small boys and a girl who were "having fun."

Here and There About Town

In Police Court

Charged with assault and battery in an affidavit filed by Harold Cox, Gottfried Fisher, Salem, will go on trial before Acting Mayor James E. Britt at 4 this afternoon.

Fisher was arrested last night by a patrolman Nerr Gaunt. He entered a plea of not guilty and was released on $30 bond.

Carl Mathews, Salem, is being held in the city jail pending arraignment on charges of assault and battery and disturbing the peace. He will be given a hearing this afternoon.

Former Chief Dies

LIMA, O., Aug. 21.—John W. Cook, former Lima police chief and Allen county sheriff, died in a hospital after a week's illness. Death was due to heart attack.

Cook also formerly was mayor of Ada, O., and left the Lima police department in January of this year.

Dentist Succumbs

LIMA, O., Aug. 21.—Dr. H. D. H. Sullivan, 70, dentist, died as he worked on a patient in his dental chair. Graduate of the Ohio Dental college, Cincinnati, he had practiced here for 44 years. Death was due to a heart attack.

500 MEN FIGHT FIRE IN IDAHO

Forest Blaze, Sweeping 2,000 Acres, Creeps Toward Town

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 21.—Upon the vagaries of the wind today rested the fate of tiny Avery, Idaho, as whose limits a raging fire lashed, while nearly 500 fighters battled stubbornly to check it.

After the flames had roared over nearly 2,000 acres during the day, the fighters blocked the blaze's forward progress with trenches late last night. Scores of forest service pumps strayed water over buildings nearest the leaping flames. Foresters said a slight breeze would sweep the forest fire over the town.

10,000 Fighting Fires

In other sections of Idaho, Montana, Washington and British Columbia discouraging reports came from fronts where nearly 10,000 fighters were waging a battle against fire.

Flames once believed to have been checked in north central Idaho were whipped to higher fury by winds, and scores of "spot" fires were started by embers. Nearly 40,000 acres, most of them blackened by conflagrations in 1910 and 1919, were ablaze or smoking in the Selway National forest.

The situation was reported to be worse in southern Idaho, where more than 100 men fought numerous fires.

In the Boise National forest, where 20,000 acres were burned over Saturday and Sunday, the wind sent the blaze back over the scorched area and the remaining timber was destroyed.

The buildings of seven small mines in the Boise area were destroyed, causing damage estimated by their owners at $80,000.

Three new fires broke out on the Cabinet forest of western Montana and two of them developed speedily into major blazes.

Thirty-eight fires burned in the forestry zone around Nelson, B. C., but all of these were reported to be small. The most serious blaze threatened the small hamlet of Canyon City for a time before 80 men checked it.

California's major fire, burning out of control in the rugged Plumas National forest for more than 60 hours, was expected to be checked today. It has destroyed 8,000 acres of valuable timber and an undetermined number of ranch buildings.

Ignore Confession

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 21.—The Lucas county grand jury ignored a "confession" made by Steve Zientek, 18, that he had murdered Steve Cygon and Eddie Baginski, but recommended that he be subjected to mental tests.

Zientek, who began serving a 10 to 25 year term in Mansfield reformatory June 28, was brought here so that he might "clear his conscience" before the grand jury, the finding of which, however, bore out the opinion of Coroner Frank Kreft that Zientek had no connection with either slaying. Cygon was shot to death during the auto-lie riot, several months ago, and young Baginski's body was found in Ten Mile creek, in May, 1931.

CAPONE'S FATE IS NOT SO BAD

At Least, So He Must Reflect As He Thinks of the Others

title of Public Enemy No. 1 was bestowed by common consent upon the Indiana "cop hater"—John Dillinger.

Bullets of police and federal agents "purged" the country of Dillinger on July 22 as he left a Chicago motion picture theater.

Looking around for a successor upon whom to pin the luckless No. 1 ribbon, department of justice officials decided upon George (Baby Face) Nelson, machine gunner for Dillinger. Nelson was the first to get an official ranking as the nation's Public Enemy No. 1. It was given in a manifesto by the government, which warned its agents to "take no undue chances" in attempting to capture him.

Since that warning Nelson has been keeping out of sight. He has been reported in Chicago, Ohio and Michigan, and even Texas, but never officially.

Of the original list of public enemies Joe Aiello, William (Three-Fingered Jack) White, George (Red) Barker, and Jack Zuta have been killed by their own kind. Frank McElrath, one of the cruelest and toughest of gunmen, died a natural death, one of the few gangsters to die of anything except "lead poisoning."

SCHOOL AREAS WILL NEED AID

Districts to Require Financial Help During Next Year

SEVENTEEN school districts in this county will require state aid during the coming school year. It was announced today by County Supt. of Schools W. E. Roberts. Clerks of the township boards of education have been queried by Roberts as to the approximate amount of money that will be required to complete the eight and nine-month rural school year.

Distribute Blanks
Application blanks and regulations are being distributed by the state department of education to district superintendents who are expected to apply for participation in the state equalization fund for the school year of '34-'35.

All districts which were eligible as far as tax rates are concerned on July 1 last, will be eligible until Jan. 1 next.

Districts not eligible July 1 last, but which can become eligible by having a tax rate of nine and one-half mills for school purposes, eight of which are for current expenses at the next December tax collection can participate in the equalization fund.

In order to be eligible for the participation after Jan 1 next, districts must have a tax rate of 9½ mills. This rate may be obtained either by action of the county budget commission or by voting of additional levies at November election.

Three-Mill Rate Seen
Information received here from the department of education offices at Columbus is to the effect that it is likely the tax rate allocated by the county budget commission to school districts for current operating expenses will not be much more than three mills.

Attention has also been called to the fact that in districts where there is no debt, it will be necessary to approve a levy of 6½ mills.

DEATHS

MISS ELIZABETH CULP

COLUMBIANA, Aug. 21. — Miss Elizabeth W. Culp, 83, died at 9:30 a. m., today at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lydia Spanabel, North Main st., as a result of complications after a long illness.

Miss Culp was born June 14, 1849, in Beaver township, Mahoning county, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Culp. She was a member of the Midway Mennonite church. She had made her home with Mrs. Spanabel for 12 years. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Spanabel and Mrs. Samuel Peicht of Columbiana; one brother, J. L. Culp, Salem, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Midway Mennonite church in charge of Rev. A. J. Steiner and Rev. E. M. Detwiler. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may call at the Warlick funeral home at any time.

65 Candidates Report At Salem High's First Grid Workouts

SMITH PLEASED WITH SPIRIT OF TEAM MEMBERS

Light Practice, Study of Fundamentals Held At Initial Sessions

A happy, hopeful gathering of youngsters, bubbling over with enthusiasm, reported to Coach L. E. Smith as the new Salem High team held its first meeting with the school's prospective gridiron gladiators at the high school gymnasium Monday.

There were 65 youngsters, the majority of them inexperienced and untried in the eager throng, and in this collection of hopefuls hinged the Red and Black's destiny in sectional football warfare during the coming campaign.

The spirit of the youngsters made a big hit with their mentor and he, who was looking forward to an unbeatable aggregation, is hopeful of the development of a fighting, fairly strong aggregation that will win its share of the games scheduled this season.

And, if the spirit and enthusiasm of the first turnout of talent means anything, that's just what Smith will have!

Yesterday's workouts, following greetings exchanged with the coach and the boys and a little talk by the former, were primarily fundamental. Some were taken to the stadium following the meeting at the gymnasium and at the school field they were sent through a series of short runs, some calisthenics and a few blocking drills.

Suits, shoes and other equipment were passed out to 18 juniors and seniors while other candidates will receive equipment as far as it will go.

Welcomes Any Candidates

Smith is only too glad to have any and all boys in high school to come out for the team. He will not, however, tolerate any loafing on the squad and wants only the youngsters who comes out with serious intentions and is willing to work. The boys, however, won't find him a hard fellow to work with, if they'll only do right by him and do their part in the practices.

We've got plenty to do and not much time to do it in," Smith remarked today. "We want things to go along in the best manner possible and the only way we can get any place at all is for us all to work together, not loaf a single minute and make our work seem like play!"

Boys that report for the team now will be kept on the squad all season for, Smith declared, there won't be any cuts. Not all boys will receive uniforms and those that do probably won't be given the best of equipment. But then to outfit 65 youngsters completely is something that can hardly be asked in present times and if those that don't get suits report in old clothes, tennis shoes, etc., they'll still get plenty of benefit from the practices.

Touch football and like games will be held for the benefit of the boys and it may be that later on they'll receive necessary equipment to enable them to get into the sliffer workouts.

Plan Daily Workouts
Daily practices will be held at the school field. Boys will receive their instructions direct from Smith and the head coach will have as his chief aid, Fred Cope, the school's track coach and faculty manager of athletics.

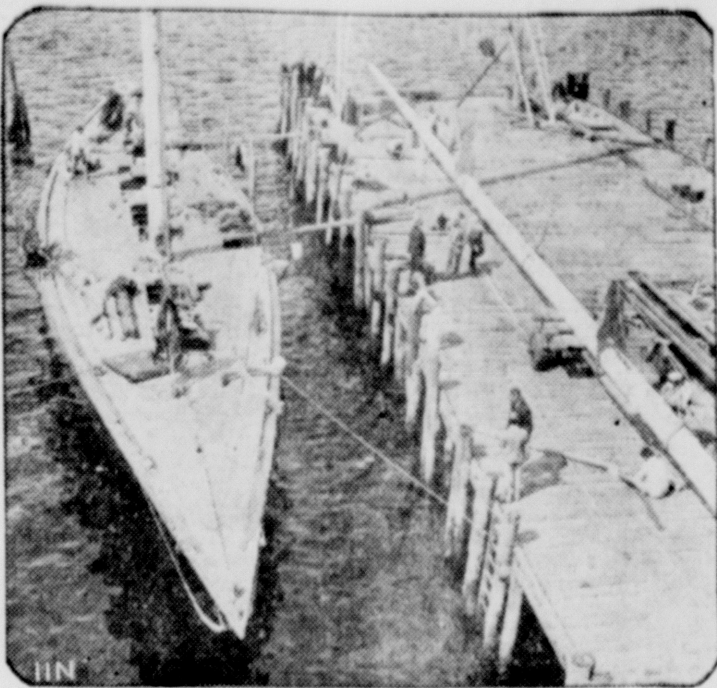

The list of candidates reporting yesterday follows:

Alden West, Lawrence Hart, Gilbert Everhart, Andy Vojtek, Harry Moffet, Bob Chappell, John Rich, Eddie Pukalski, Roland Schaffer, Howard Tibbs, Walter Handlick, Bill DeReinzo, Paul Layden, Walter Abblett, Vance Stewart, Joseph Kornbau, John Shea, Virgil Whinery, Paul Williamson, Walter Minth, Harry Bichel, Robert Huston, Dick McArthur, Les Getz, Bob Hertz, Robert Kirchgesner.

Bob Kaminsky, Walter Schell, William Wiegand, Jim Feiler, Mathew Liebhart, Joe Nonno, Bronko Drakulich, John Tromblis, Bob Battin, Harry McCarthy, William Guappone, Charles Yeager, Leland Patterson.

HARDWARE NINE BATTLES CIGARS TO NO DECISION

Mullins Club Triumphs Over Trades Class by 7 to 3 Score

The United Cigars, one of the principal contenders for title laurels in the Class A softball league, was held to a 6-6 tie by the Salem Hardware in a nine-inning fray at Centennial park Monday.

Both teams enjoyed one big inning, the Hardware sending five runs across the plate in the first of the fourth while the Tobies retaliated with a six-run spurge in their half of the same frame.

From then on the two clubs battled on even terms, neither being able to send the winning run across.

The Mullins Foremen's club broke out of its extended slump long enough to play some good ball and hand the Trades Class a 7 to 3 setback. McNamee held the losers to three hits.

Lakers On Short End of 9-1 Count; To Play Minerva Sunday

Placencia lake tossers struck another mighty tough aggregation as they tackled the strong Akron Snyder Lumber team and dropped a 9-4 verdict in an interesting battle at the large field Sunday.

Akron took an early lead and was never headed. Ted Schwartzhoff hit a homer but it wasn't enough as Lockhart, Akron hurler, held the lake team to nine hits, most of them collected after his club had practically clinched the verdict.

Placencia will play Minerva next Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Hobson Catches 'Tiger' Muskellunge

Long Lake, Wis., has one less "tiger" muskellunge in its waters today and Dr. A. B. Hobson is responsible.

Dr. Hobson, fishing for bass at the lake where he is vacationing, last week pulled out a 37 in., 15 lb. "muskie".

He sent it to Norman Reich, Salem, for an exhibit of his fishing prowess among local friends.

Dean Restored To Good Standing As Case Is Heard Before Judge Landis

Insurrection of Dizzy One Costs Him $186, But He's Back in Good Graces of Cards Again.

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—The glory that was Dizzy Dean, although slightly faded, will shine again from the Cardinal baseball camp.

This dizzy one, ace pitcher of the Cardinal staff, was restored to good standing by Manager Frankie Frisch following a "closed" hearing of the suspension case before the grey-haired potentate of baseball, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Landis decreed that the hearing be closed, but the transaction over the hotel room door was open, a free outlet for the rapid cross-fire of questioning, which often led to heated arguments.

It was the seventh day of Dizzy's suspension, which he drew from the Cardinal management for failing to attend an exhibition game in Detroit last week and refusing to pay a $100 fine.

After several hours of discussion, Landis announced he had decided the 10-day suspension imposed by Manager Frisch was not excessive.

Present at the hearing, as Dizzy's only counsel for the defense, was Brother Paul, also a Cardinal pitcher, who remained away from the Detroit game with Dizzy, was suspended but later reinstated.

Dizzy's insurrection cost him $186—his pay for seven days amounting to $350; two uniforms he tore, $36, and the fine at the outset of the trouble, $100.

DAVIS DEFENDS SINGLES HONORS IN ANNUAL PLAY

Oscar Tolerton, Christian Roth Holders of Doubles Title

Again involving Salem netters in roles of defending champions, the annual Columbiana county tennis tournament will get under way at courts of the Salem Country club Saturday, Aug. 25.

Finals in the competition, an annual event with Salem coping major honors so many years that it has developed into an almost all-Salem tournament, will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 3.

Robert Davis will defend his singles championship with Oscar Tolerton and Christian Roth as the doubles champs.

Tolerton a year ago was the runner-up in singles while Walter Hartsock and Thomas Moore held the same distinction in the doubles.

Expect Large Field
A field of between 40 and 50 players is expected to vie for laurels in the coming event. A large number of players from East Palestine, East Liverpool, Leetonia and other county cities are expected to be among the contestants.

Davis, as champion, will undoubtedly be ranked as the favorite in singles but he can expect plenty of competition from such stars as Roth, Hartsock, Tom French, Jack Mullins, all of Salem; Bob Walker of Lisbon, Loren Early of East Palestine, and a corps of talented stars from other cities.

Twenty doubles teams are expected to compete.

Drawings will be made next Thursday night, Aug. 22, and entries will close at 6 p. m. that day. Tom Moore is receiving the entries in Salem. He can be reached by calling 1293-M.

Dunn Eden to Play Columbiana Team

Dunn Eden diamonded easily defeated Hancock all-stars, 7-1, at Dunn Eden lake Sunday.

The Dunnmen will oppose Columbiana Richardson Tires at Columbiana Wednesday. All players are asked to report in front of the Lape hotel at 4:30.

Slack pitched brilliant ball to enable the lakers to subdue the Hancock team. The victors collected 10 hits to the losers' five.

HUBBELL HURLS GIANTS TO WIN

National Leaders Annex 5th Straight; Pirates Beat Brooklyn

(By Associated Press)
The National league ball is the batman's delight under ordinary circumstances but not when Carl Owen Hubbell is on the throwing end of it.

Although Hubbell perhaps has been hit slightly harder this year than last, when he led the New York Giants to a league pennant and the world championship, the great left-hander still is the big ace on Bill Terry's staff and possibly the most valuable piece of pitching bric-a-brac in baseball.

A large slice of the credit for the Giants' present position in the 1934 race—they lead the second place Chicago Cubs by five and a half games with six weeks to go—belongs to Carl.

He was called in for rescue duty for the second time in as many days yesterday and stopped a threatening Cincinnati rally as the Giants won, 7-4, and extended their winning streak to five games in a row.

The only other game on the day's major league schedule was extraordinary in that Pittsburgh finally won a game from Brooklyn. Pittsburgh's Pirates had taken eight beatings in succession from the Dodgers until Bill Swift came up with an eight-hit game and led Pittsburgh to a 6-2 triumph.

Paul Waner's four singles were a distinct help to the Pirates who thus cut Boston's lead, in fourth place, to two and a half games.

"SEDIMENT SEGREGATION"

Webster defines Sediment Segregation as follows:

SEDIMENT—A settling of dregs—The matter which subsides to the bottom of water.

SEGREGATION—Separation from others—a parting.

Speaking then in common everyday language we say that Sediment Segregation means the separation of grit and dirt from clothes in the process of washing, and depositing them away from the clothing, under the agitator in the bottom of the tub.

THE FRENCH AGITATOR

In The New

ABC ELECTRIC WASHER

cleanses the wash water as well as the clothes. You'll find that all dirt and grit gather under the French Agitator. You can even take a few handfuls of sand and throw them in with your clothes while washing and when finished will be found under the French Agitator.

This exclusive feature of the new ABC Washer eliminates wear and tear on clothing, frees them from all dirt and grit and gives cleaner clothes.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

The expression did not alter life at Hawthorn, the comfortable, hospitable home of the Rutledges. Caroline, the lovely daughter, entertained the young people who swarmed there. Mrs. Rutledge spends most of her time around and her husband pretends to live at the club. Following her mother's return from one of her trips, Caroline gives a party. The pampered Alva notes how capable her daughter is and wishes she could be like her. About it, Caroline's mother disapproves of their daughter's fiancé, Howard. Years ago, Howard's father bought property from Philip saying he wanted a factory and instead he went into the soap business in competition with Philip. The families have been enemies ever since. At the party, Philip argues with the news that Howard seems genuinely shocked. Discussing the effect of the distressing news, Howard tells Caroline: "If we marry, my father will cut me off and I know you, it wouldn't please you any more to be poor than a would be." "Is that what you think of me?" Caroline flinches back. "Well, you are wrong. I'd have been happy with you anywhere before you said that." With a scornful gesture, she hands him his engagement ring. After Howard leaves, Caroline is broken-hearted. Another crushing blow falls when her father tells her "Hawthorn" is no longer theirs. Alva is shocked to learn their new home is on Edge Street, the wrong side of town. Caroline looks at her weeping mother and dejected father. She had never attributed strength to her mother, but she expected her to carry through gracefully. She is stunned that her father should accept defeat. "Why don't you cry with her, father?" Caroline asks. Alva gasped. Philip winced.

CHAPTER VI

Caroline had got what she wanted—their attention. "I'm sorry," she said tenderly, "but you had to be made conscious of yourselves. If the boat is sunk, there's no use wasting your energy in tears. Mother, it looks as though we'll have to swim to Father's raft."

"Be facetious if you like," her mother sobbed. "It's quite different for you, you'll be marrying the money your father has lost. But you can't," she added bitterly. "Imagine that Howard is the kind of man to help his wife's family."

"No," Caroline said slowly. "I can't. Howard, I should say, will never be in the position where help for his wife's family would be required of him."

Her mother was taken by surprise and puzzled, too. "I'm glad," she said frigidly, "that you are beginning to understand the young man, but I hardly expected you to think of turning your back on your father and me—if that is what you mean."

"It isn't. I shan't desert you. I mean that Howard is not likely to have a wife whose parents are in need of help."

"Are you trying to say that your parents are not in need of help?"

"No, Mother dear, I'm merely trying to say that Howard is not going to marry a poor girl—not me at any rate."

Mr. Rutledge stiffened. "What is this you are saying, Caroline? Did that young man..."

Caroline stopped him. "I broke the engagement myself," she explained.

"What an idiotic thing to do!" her mother exclaimed. "What on earth will you do now? Your father has certainly made it plain enough that nothing but sordid poverty lies ahead of us."

"I think she's well rid of the worthless puppy," Mr. Rutledge declared, but Caroline's statement caused him uneasiness, for like his wife, he had considered Caroline set, had felt relieved not to have to trouble himself over her future support.

Caroline's eyes veiled for an instant with tears. It seemed so different from what it was—to be talking of her broken engagement like this—quite as though it were nothing more than the loss of money while all the time her heart was draining dry of hope for any happiness.

"You've never liked Howard," she said to her mother. "You don't believe in him. I should think you'd be glad I'm not going to marry him."

Alva wept a little more before she answered. "You believed in him," she said, "and I don't know how your father can provide for you—unless you are willing to live in that dreadful part of town. But you didn't know how terribly everything has changed when you quarreled with Howard. You did quarrel with him, didn't you?"

"I suppose so," Caroline answered bleakly, "but it wouldn't have mattered about the crash, how complete it was. We'd have broken anyway."

Her father started to speak, hesitated, then said doubtfully: "Lovers' quarrels can be mended, you know, if you're very unhappy over it."

Caroline's hands clenched at her sides. How fearfully they wanted to marry her off! "I am unhappy over it," she began steadily, "because I love him. But he isn't worth it and we won't make up our quarrel. But you two needn't worry about me. I'll take care of myself."

Her voice had risen, it broke. She turned and ran from the room, getting out of their presence, out of the house. Upstairs she dressed hurriedly, then slipped out of a side entrance of the house to the garage and a few minutes later was tearing down the winding drive between the magnificent chestnut trees at a reckless speed in her new red roadster.

She took no thought of where she was going, following the first open road to the country. Then suddenly she wanted to be away from traffic, turned to a cross-road and continued on it until she was well off the much-traveled highway.

The road was bad after a few miles, filled with ruts that held the mud of winter and early spring rains. The car bounced heavily along as Caroline paid little heed to where she steered it. But presently, after hitting a particularly deep hole, she felt the sickening motion that meant she had a flat tire.

Ahead of her was a rise, free of ruts; she drove to the crest of it and looked about her. Not a house was in sight.

For half an hour she sat in the car trying to keep up the courage she needed to face the future, before anyone approached. Then she saw, far down the road in the direction she had come, a solitary figure coming toward her. As the distance between them lessened she saw that it was a man of nondescript appearance. A dog with dragging tail walked behind him. "The man's gait was slochy and Caroline noted that his course was erratic."

She would not have appealed to him for help but he saw the flat tire, saw, too, that she was alone in the car and came to a stop beside her.

"Want some help, lady?" he asked, leaning familiarly into her face.

Caroline eyed the man coolly. "No thanks," she answered in a crisp voice.

"Just as you say," he agreed, "but they ain't no sense settin' here waitin'. Trother end of this road's down by the river. Ain't no body comin' along here these days."

"Can you change a tire?" she asked.

"Sure 'nough."

"All right. Go ahead. The tools you'll need are in the back. Here's the key."

She kept her seat while he got out the things he wanted and started to work. With some little trouble he got the car jacked up and a spare tire out of its well, but there his efforts struck a snag.

Caroline became impatient, got out of the car to see what was the matter and decided she'd have to supervise the job. The man tried to do as she directed, but he was clumsy and inept to a degree that exasperated the girl. She was obliged finally to lend a hand. While she was thus engaged her two-skin silver fox scarf slipped to the ground. She absent-mindedly picked it up and tossed it toward the open window of the roadster. She missed and it fell to the running-board.

About ten minutes later the job was finished. Caroline turned toward the car to get her handbag and realized with a shock that she had neglected to bring one along. She had no money to pay the man. With her mind on this unpleasant circumstance she failed to see that her fox scarf had disappeared.

She faced him and said quietly: "If you will give me your name and address I'll send you two dollars for your work."

The man stared at her blankly. Then, "What's the idea?" he asked. "I haven't any money with me," the girl answered simply.

At first he was disinclined to believe her, thinking she might be in fear of him. But she convinced him finally that she was telling the truth. To her dismay he rejected her offer to send the money to him by post and suggested that she take him back to town with her and pay him as soon as she got the money.

He had stepped up toward the car, stood close to her as he said this. The reek of liquor on his breath was obnoxiously strong. Caroline was averse to riding in the roadster with him in the seat next to her.

"If you are not willing to wait for your money I shall pay you only a dollar," she said firmly.

The man's face took on an unpleasant expression as his piggy eyes glared at her. "I got to walk three miles for my mail," he said heavily.

"But it's more than three miles back here from my home," Caroline pointed out to him.

"I get off the bus at Harley's Corner and cut across field. It's less than three miles that way from town."

"But I live..." she stopped abruptly.

"I guess the likes of you can get some money from a bank," the man said, grinning. He moved to get into the car.

Caroline saw that he was determined; the lure of town with money to spend, she suspected.

"I'm not going to argue with you," she said coldly. "It isn't convenient for me to take you into town. I shall add fifty cents more to the two dollars for your trouble in walking the three miles. Where shall I send it, please, and what is your name?"

A look of ugly resentment filled the piggy eyes now as the man answered her. "I get you, lady," he said sneeringly. "I ain't fitten for you to ride with. You're one of them as always has money to buy what you want. Well, I ain't told you my name and I ain't gonna tell you, 'cause you're gonna ride me into town and gimme that money without more talkin' about it."

His tone and manner were threatening. Caroline lost her assurance. Further argument, she saw, was useless and possibly dangerous.

"Not unless you prefer the ride to this," she said as easily as she could, and unfastened her wrist-watch, which she held out to him with a gesture of finality.

"Hey, that ain't so bad," the man stammered as he took it. Then, suspiciously: "But you gotta remember that you gimme it."

"Of course," she said decisively, and started to get into the car. The man drew away. She paused, remembering her scarf, and looked about for it. It was not on the running board or anywhere about the car.

Caroline heard the man say: "Damn that dern dog," and looked up to follow his gaze down the road. There was her scarf, in the teeth of the dog as he lay resting from his labor of trying to shake the skins to pieces.

She ran to rescue it. The dog seemed to think she had come to share in his game and took it up again. The man approached and kicked at him brutally, spoiling his fun. He dropped the fur piece and slunk away.

Caroline picked it up, muddy and damaged. As she started back to the car she saw that her new blue suit was spotted and streaked with mud from the dog's paws.

Suddenly the mounting flood of her ill luck engulfed her. She choked over a sob in her throat.

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious illness.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Nursery Furniture More Practical Than Old

ALMOST EVERY department in this month is showing model nurseries and children's rooms, all of them excellent, many of them superb. The nurseries are out for modern and the children's rooms are out for the first-born.

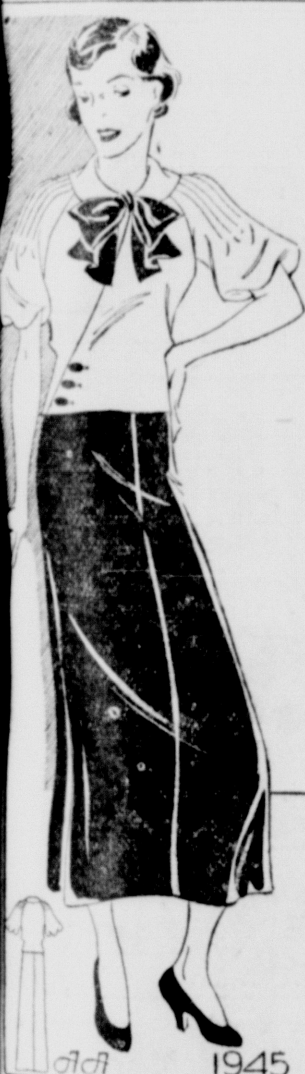

Of course, pink and blue are still the colors of the moment. But these hues are intelligent. Shrimp, salmon and pink are used instead of the old pink that used to be the color of the first-born.

Of course, pink and blue are still the colors of the moment. But these hues are intelligent. Shrimp, salmon and pink are used instead of the old pink that used to be the color of the first-born.

Minimizing Accidents

Most of the new furniture has rounded corners which minimizes accidents to which the best of parents is subject. Many of

Today's Pattern

PERFECT COMBINATION OF BLOUSE AND SKIRT

PATTERN 1945

We are going to wear lots and lots of blouses and skirts this fall. Don't you? They are so convenient! There isn't a woman—or girl—who doesn't have a grand time making different combinations of them. But this combination is perfect. The absence of detail in the skirt emphasizes the interest in the ruffled sleeves in the blouse. Its pretty tucked shoulders, elegant cut and unusual buttoning. Blouse and skirt are included in one pattern. We'd like wool or rayon. And should you prefer to buy the rays prints in Vogue—it could be perfect, too.

Pattern 1945 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100. Size 16 takes 2 1/2 yards of fabric and 2 1/4 yards of lining. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for the Anne Adams pattern. Write to Anne Adams Pattern, 243 West 11th Street, New York City.

the chifferophies, closets and cabinets reach to the floor, which makes for less dust and dirt. Cabinets have open shelves, so that children, even when quite young, can easily be taught to pick up their toys and stow them away.

Boys for youngsters who don't have to be put to bed, have a little set of steps alongside to that they can proudly climb to slumberland alone. Many nursery sets come with crib and such a bed, which, when the steps are removed, becomes a regular bed for junior or sister, when he or she is past the baby stage. Maple is used a great deal for nursery furniture.
